Over 500 projects and more than 700 organizations have received support for the last 10 years from the NGO Fund in Bulgaria. For the civil sector, this support is particularly important because it fosters an enabling environment and strengthens the NGOs' capacity. In this way, we gave the green light to many causes that touched human destinies, overturned attitudes, and provoked public reaction. For the 2007-2009 period, the NGO Fund in Bulgaria was managed by the Foundation for Local Government Reform and for the 2009-2014 and 2014-2021 periods by the Open Society Institute and their partners.

Support for vulnerable groups, including contribution to national Roma integration policies, is also a focus of the financial mechanisms. We support areas such as education, health, justice and home affairs and culture. A quarter of the projects funded by the NGO Fund also have such a priority.

“The scholarship gave me the confidence necessary to be a full-fledged student and to do my best. The system treated me as equal to everyone else”, says 32-year-old Emil, and his colleague Marin (28) adds: “The scholarships gave us the opportunity to complete our education. If you need to invest 100% of yourself in a medical specialty, you need 150% if you are Roma.” The two students are among the beneficiaries of the health programme that gave representatives of vulnerable groups the chance to receive support for education.

The official relations between Bulgaria and Norway, Iceland and Liechtenstein have their long history, dating back to 1906 with Norway. The financial mechanisms have been implemented in the spirit of friendship and sharing of experience. Over 200 partnerships have been established and hundreds of Bulgarian students, lecturers and scholars have the opportunity to communicate and work with colleagues from donor countries. The Bulgarian scientist is a respected partner and the exchanged experience is priceless for both parties. With great interest and curiosity, Bulgaria and Norway view each other with their rich historical and cultural roots. Thus, with the support of the programmes, from September 2017 for a three-month period an exhibition of the Thracian treasures of Bulgaria visits the Norwegian town of Bergen in an exciting meeting of millennial civilizations. Beyond the received funds and the implemented projects, it is important for all of us that the mutual trust we have already built lays the foundation for future development of current as well as new joint initiatives. Particularly helpful here is the support of the Norwegian Embassy to Bulgaria, which assists in establishing contacts and serves as a valuable intermediary in the initial stages of cooperation.

In 2017 we are marking the first decade of partnership between Bulgaria, Norway, Iceland and Liechtenstein for the implementation of programmes and projects under the EEA and Norway Grants. During this period, Bulgaria got access to more than 160 million euro and provided support for more than 800 projects in various fields, including education, culture, justice and home affairs, environment and civil society.

The cooperation within the European Economic Area dates back to 1994 when the foundations of free movement of goods, services and people within the member states were laid. One of the goals of the agreement for free trade is to reduce the social and economic disparities. This is also the aim of the contribution from Norway, Iceland and Liechtenstein through the EEA and Norway Grants. Development and partnership projects are supported in 15 countries with Bulgaria being among the ones with the highest share of the funding.
